Your Guide to Buying, Selling & Living in East Tennessee

There is a reason so many people are discovering East Tennessee.

From lakes and mountains to golf, outdoor recreation, restaurants, universities, healthcare and growing communities, the region offers a wide variety of lifestyles.

But East Tennessee isn't one market and it isn't one lifestyle. As an example, Knoxville is different from Farragut and Tellico Village is different from Loudon. Understanding the community differences and presenting them to our clients in a non-bias way helps narrow down where they might want to explore first. Factors of family and housing needs, personal and financial goals are of upmost importance. There is a house for everyone to make their home and the best community for you depends on what you want your everyday life to look like.
